

What is friendship?

What is friendship Each person in life have to communicate with people. Communication is one of the most important among human needs. Communication is the informational and substantive cooperation in the process which is manifested and shaped by interpersonal relationships MO. In the interaction of people with each other manifest their personal qualities this and follow MO. The most important feature of MO - their emotional basis. It means that they arise and develop on the basis of certain feelings born people relative to each other. These feelings can be closer uniting people and dividing them. If you delve into MO then faced with the more personal communication for example with the intimate and personal. Participation of partners in the problems of each other the opportunity to share their spiritual and practical existence. Intimate and personal communication occurs when the condition of shared values partners and complicity provided by understanding of the thoughts feelings and intentions of the other with empathy. Participation in intimate and personal relations is samouchitelya of the individual which contribute most to the highest form of an intimate and personal communication - friendship and love. In this paper I would like to consider what is friendship what there are friendships varieties and types as understood and appreciated the friendship of the writers. First, consider the elements of the psychology of friendship attraction empathy as friendships, they are the main organizing. The psychology of friendship. Attraction. The psychology of friendship was related to socio-psychological research interpersonal attractions. The word attraction means attraction attraction. In social psychology the concept of interpersonal attractions define as a cognitive the cognitive component of an emotional relationship to another person or as some social setting, or finally as emotional a component of interpersonal perception. The psychology of entertainment covers 1. requirements of the subject prompted him to choose one or the other partner 2. the properties of the object partner stimulating interest or sympathy to him 3. the features of the process of interaction conducive to the occurrence and development of dyadic paired relationships 4. the objective conditions for such interaction such as membership to the General circle. Empathy. In modern psychology, empathy is commonly interpreted as either the ability to understand the world of another's experience or ability to learn the emotional life of another by sharing his experiences. Analyzing existing definitions of empathy, there are four of the most common 1 understanding feelings

Link to article:: What is friendship?