

What is true friendship?

Did you know that Friends are people with whom we share common interests, spiritual needs the same view of moral values. To them, we always implicitly trust they can rely. They see and always appreciate our achievements dignity. Always forgive us for our whims. Friend always ready to help and support in any situation. The location and attachment of each will depend on the best reasons. The man who from his friend constantly demands something not capable of sincere and genuine friendship. True friendship has always been considered the greatest human value. You will notice that before this friendship was treated more carefully with much feeling. For the sake of it were ready for any sacrifice. Today, the friendship turned more into a friendly relationship which is not binding or simple contacts with common interests at work. The need in today's communication we rather satisfy with a TV or a walk on the Internet. Maybe we don't need friends don't need the friendship of Course the question unnecessary. Today more than ever, we need friendship. Look at our world, he became rational and soulless. Look around every day increases the number of people who suffer from loneliness and lack of friendship for yourself. They do not have enough close loved one. A man who would selflessly helped they could always give advice and when to comfort. Each is a value that nothing in life cannot be replaced. Let's be honest to admit that very often we are not able to be solved first to take care of that which we need very badly. We just do not want to open up your soul and afraid to be disappointed. Distrust and prejudice can't win friendship. These traits cause indifference to the people which eventually ends up in loneliness and isolation. The friendship tie easily and keep it not very easy. Like any delicate plant of friendship should be carefully protected and nurtured to take root. We have a lot of work soul she blossomed. We must be able ourselves to give and without expecting anything in return. Trust and generosity can grow friendship. Remember that friends becomes the only one who is able to be a friend. This issue has already become eternal and it is different people give different answers. If you combine them with points of view that all people are divided into two camps, one strongly believe that woman and man can be friends while others are skeptical yeah-yeah what about the friendship... The division of friendship into male and female conditional. Sincere friendship originates from childhood and adolescence and the main difference in common interests and a lot

Link to article:: What is true friendship?